- ✘  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the students surveyed admitted to cheating by copying the answers.

SUMMARY

- ✘ Homework is an interesting topic. I personally believe that homework is important for extra learning and revision. After completing the set tasks, I have gathered that students will do homework just for the sake of it.
- ✘ From data obtained in my survey, the same amounts of students complete their homework as compared to those who do not do their homework. Students, when asked about their feedback into homework, most were quick to give negative reasons. A majority of students said that homework was boring and a waste of time. Although a few students gave good comments regarding homework.
- ✘ The questionnaire was structured to determine the general feeling of homework and how students did their homework. The second part of the questionnaire returned with a variety of answers. Half of the students surveyed admitted to copying the answers. Surprisingly, these results are identical to the percentage of students not doing their homework. Students sometimes need guidance when doing homework. We found out that most people asked their family for help. Friends were also commonly asked but it was discovered that students are independent and did not teachers' help.
- ✘ The school should review their homework policies as no students enjoyed homework. Even the students surveyed which liked homework did not really take pleasure in doing homework activities. Nearly everyone agreed that homework is not fun.
- ✘ To conclude, we can see from this questionnaire that students would appreciate homework more if it was made more interesting. Students would also learn more from changes to homework. Personally, I still do all my homework but would also like to see the homework improved.
- ❖ The results are in no particular order and the surveyed have remained anonymous.
